

Exercise 1:

- Put the adverbs in the correct place in the sentence. Follow the example.

Example: My computer has never made that noise before. (never)

- 1- It's not easy to get tickets. always
- 2- Why are you here when I need you? never
- 3- My girlfriend cooks a hot meal for lunch. usually
- 4- They'll expect us to take a bottle of wine. probably
- 5- McVities Plain Chocolate Digestive biscuits are the best. definitely
- 6- I have been so happy in my life. never
- 7- Do you clean your nose with your T-shirt? usually
- 8- I remember buying more beer. definitely
- 9- August is the hottest month in Spain. usually
- 10- I can manage to be there around three o'clock. probably
- 11- I'm terribly sorry, our dog's done that before. never
- 12- Yes, you're right. probably
- 13- Is the heating on? I feel cold in your house. always
- 14- You should say thank you when someone gives you something. always
- 15- Valencia are going to win on Sunday. definitely

Exercise 2:

- Put the words on the right into the correct position in each line of the story. More than one position may be possible. Follow the examples.

Jealousy and Lies

outside - still - even - quite - still - enough - hardly ever - carelessly - outside - strangely - still - terribly

Santi's car stopped outside the restaurant at 10pm.
He was still wearing his work clothes which were (still) dirty from a long day in the fish factory. He opened the door and didn't look at me as he stood next to our table. It took a long time for someone to speak. I _____ couldn't believe he had found us. "Have you had _____ to eat?" he asked David. I saw panic in David's eyes. He is _____ lost for words, but now he just sat there. _____ Santi _____ took David's napkin _____ and _____ threw it _____ on the floor, _____ . "I'd like to speak to you _____ David." said Santi. I felt _____ relieved as both men left the restaurant and people around me started speaking again. I was _____ worried and I felt _____ guilty when I had seen the pain in Santi's eyes.

both – quietly – never - enough – curiously – quite – even – finally – freely – still - immediately

_____ Santi and David _____ stood silently in the street, _____ waiting for the other to speak. "How long have you been seeing my wife?" asked Santi, _____ . "About four months," replied David. "Look Santi, I _____ had any intention...." "Shut up! Don't you think you've done _____ damage?" cried Santi, causing late-night shoppers to look _____ at the two men _____. David was _____ surprised when Santi hit him. He didn't think Santi would use violence. He _____ thought that Santi might _____ walk away and say nothing. _____ When Maria _____ left the restaurant _____, she saw David on the floor. Blood was running _____ from his nose and onto his white shirt. Santi was _____ standing there, his body _____ shaking with anger. Almost _____ I took Santi's hand and pulled him away.

outside - still - even - quite - still - enough - hardly ever - carelessly - outside - strangely - still - terribly

We _____ walked to his car that he had left in the middle of the road, the engine _____ running. _____ I opened the car door _____ and Santi _____ got inside _____. I couldn't tell him I was sleeping with David for the money. He wasn't _____ old enough _____ to understand _____.